News January 2016

Out with the old, in with the new

NVIC wishes you the best for 2016! After a short winter break, we are back to business. For NVIC, January is not just the start of a new year, but the start of three new programs. From the 10th onwards, we will host a group of Dutch students for our Egyptology program, and the BA program in Arabic & Islamic Studies kicks off on the 24th of this month. In the meantime, our Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) course takes place from the 11th till the 20th. We will resume private Arabic lessons and organize a new series of Dutch classes.

Assistant director Archaeology & Egyptology

NVIC also has the pleasure to welcome its new assistant director for Archaeology & Egyptology. Dr. Marleen De Meyer, whose journey with NVIC started on the third of this month, is an Egyptologist and accomplished scholar also affiliated to the University of Leuven, Belgium. She is also the assistant director of the Deir el-Bersha project. At NVIC she will coordinate the Egyptology program in addition to teaching and doing her own research.

TAFL Course June 2016

NVIC is contemplating organizing a new edition of its Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language (TAFL) course in June 2016, on the condition that there is sufficient interest. We know a number of you wanted to join the January edition but could not make it, so this may be your chance! Please express your interest in an email to info@nvic.leidenuniv.nl, and we will keep you posted on the coming TAFL course.

Library news

In this new year the library will continue to provide a quiet and pleasant environment for study and research. We are happy to welcome you back to consult and enjoy our collection on Ancient Egypt, Arabic dialects, linguistics, literature and much more. Check our website, Facebook and catalogue for updates in our collection.

Films and Lectures

This January we will have two movie nights in the theme language & books. The dates and details for these screenings will be announced later. Check our Facebook for more details.

Taking pictures in Cairo

Taking pictures in Cairo is an interesting experience. Read the story of our intern Lies Peeters here.
